Living your best life

Always Start with Why.

This is a practical programme on how to become an Effective Director. Directors are functioning in an increasingly complex world and by being a director you are, more than ever, required to meet your regulatory and statutory obligations.

It is imperative in today's highly regulated environment for any individual appointed in a position of trust to fully understand their duties, responsibilities and potential liabilities in that position to assist them in being an effective office bearer while at the same time being protected from potential personal liability. Directors of companies in South Africa must ensure that the standard of conduct displayed by them meets the statutory requirements, in the absence of which, causes several repercussions not only limited to financial risk but also brand damage. For this reason, everyone must have a basic understanding of the regulatory universe in which they have to operate as a director or senior executive of a company.
